Bolivian handicraft & Hosta sales benefit charity

Mano a Mano International Partners is a small yet powerful organization working to improve lives in rural Bolivia. Rich worked with co-founder Joan Velasquez 50 years ago in Bolivia in the Peace Corps. Mano a Mano's work focuses on building hospitals, schools, roads and irrigation projects. They have built over 150 hospitals that are all functioning today, serving their local communities. Sales of hostas and colorful handicrafts made by Bolivians benefit the charity. Hostas will be available from minis to large forms, with leaves of green or blue. Many other hostas have fabulous variegations with touches of cream or chartreuse. Bolivian handicrafts include scarves, sweaters, tablecloths, bags, coin purses, and more. Previous efforts raised enough funds to build and dedicate a school in Sora Sora in honor of Rich's mother Margaret Eyre.
